

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

July 22, 2020

Skilled Web Developer Returns to Element Jeremy Hanson hired as senior web developer

DE PERE, Wis. – Element, a full-service integrated marketing agency with two locations in Northeast Wisconsin, hired Jeremy Hanson as a senior web developer. Having previously worked for Element in the past, Hanson brings 16 years of web development experience to the team.

Hanson has an associate degree in programming and analysis from Fox Valley Technical College. He then began his career as a programmer at Lead Streams Marketing before joining Element in 2010. Following this, he became a programmer at Lead Genesis before returning to Element in 2020.

As part of the Element team, Hanson will provide programming for phone apps, website applications, and custom websites while handling website design implementation.

###

About Element

Element is a full-service integrated marketing agency with more than 80 clients in both B2B and B2C industries. Our mission is to boost our clients' bottom lines using a strategic, research-driven approach that aligns creative campaigns, digital marketing, public relations, and more to keep sales prospects on the path to purchase and engaged with a brand. We pride ourselves on honest communication with clients and our down-to-earth, "Get Real" culture. Learn more and see our work at goelement.com.

Press Contact

Chloe Albrecht
Public Relations Manager
chloe@goelement.com
(920) 983-9700